And Now the GREAT BOOK SALE Is Better Than When It Commenced

Thousands of New Books are here—just from the publishers. The offering this week differs in many respects from the usual mark-down or clearance of Books

These Books Are Publishers' Remainders

Sold by the Publishers themselves at extremely low prices, thus enabling us to offer them at a Fraction of the Original Prices

In addition to this they are uniformly new and perfect—in excellent condition, and in nearly every case boxed, thus they are in the perfect state in which they leave the binders' hands.

In some instances we have secured a large number of volumes of each title so that there will be enough for all, but in many instances the quantity is so small that the first day's sales are apt to take them all.

In either case when these are sold there is not likely to be any more offered for sale. If some volume is advertised that you want, do not delay, but come or send for it at once.
